Bachelor of Arts in Organizational Leadership

The adult accelerated undergraduate programs at Benedictine University.

Bachelor of Arts in Organizational Leadership

THE BACHELOR OF ARTS (B.A.) IN ORGANIZATIONAL LEADERSHIP PROGRAM AT BENEDICTINE UNIVERSITY is designed for students interested in the behavioral perspectives of organization and management, emphasizing managing and leading people rather than product production. It is designed for those who want to gain a deeper understanding of the cultural and personal dynamics present in today's organizations.

The program provides a strong social science base that includes courses in social psychology, organizational behavior, social and cultural change, statistics and research methods. Courses in cultural anthropology and international business provide a global perspective. Basic business functions are covered through courses in management, labor relations, production and operations management. The final major program course—the Organizational Leadership Capstone—requires a research study for program synthesis.

All courses are based on adult learning principles and are delivered in a blended format that combines the most effective aspects of live instruction with self-directed online learning. The B.A. in Organizational Leadership is offered in an evening accelerated learning team format providing students with the knowledge, skills and creative problem-solving ability today's workplace demands. Students also enjoy the benefits of a strong, values-based education with all the convenience of an adult learner setting.

With transferred credit hours, major coursework and completion of graduation requirements (including major cognate, core courses and electives), most students finish the B.A. degree completion in Organizational Leadership program in about two years or less.

Students may also pursue a concentration or academic certificate in Marketing or Human Resources Management through online coursework, along with an option for work/life credits, to fulfill any remaining elective requirements upon advisement.
