

China Institute Scholarship Application

Summary

The China Institute Scholarship (CIS) is an award offered by the China Institute to Chinese Citizens planning to attend Benedictine University for the purpose of advancing their education. The scholarship is only available to China Institute students and is not negotiable or renewable. Chinese citizens who complete an application for admission and are admitted will automatically be considered for the China Institute Scholarship.

Eligibility Criteria and Conditions

- i) Candidates are required to complete and submit their China Institute Scholarship Application form.
- ii) Students who enroll at Benedictine University as an “international student” must maintain “international student” status for the duration of your enrollment at the University. The scholarship will be terminated if you change your residency status.
- iii) This scholarship is available to the citizens of the People’s Republic of China. Citizens and Permanent Residents of the United States of America are ineligible.
- iv) Maintain satisfactory academic progress as determined by a review panel supervised by the China Institute. The University reserves the right to terminate scholarships of students who do not maintain satisfactory progress.
- v) Scholarship only applies to tuition/fees indicated in the acceptance letter.

Benedictine University reserves the right at all times to modify the scholarship requirements and to make other changes to its degree programs when it determines it is in the best interest of the University. Students will be notified of their acceptance status either by e-mail or by mail two weeks after the receipt of the application.
