Master of Public Health (MPH)

Overview
Master of Public Health
Benedictine University

Vision:
the first choice for those interested in practicing real world – real time public health.

Mission:
prepare graduate students to enhance health in human populations through organized community effort.
What do we offer?

• MPH generalist degree
• Dual Degrees
  – Nutrition
  – Business Administration
  – Organizational Behavior
  – Information Systems
• Certificates (4 courses)
• On campus and Online

Benedictine University
Informing today—Transforming tomorrow
MPH students come with a variety of undergraduate degrees.

- Biology
- Business
- Medicine
- Nutrition
- Nursing
- Education
- Computer Science
Our Faculty

• Health Department Administrators
• Hospital CEOs
• Health Care Consultants
• Epidemiologists
• Physicians
• Attorneys
• Researchers
• Program Planners
• Preparedness Coordinators
MPH Alumni and Students learn about career options. Online students join via remote connection.
Senator Pat McGuire “demythologizes politics” for MPH Health Policy Students Opportunities for Research

2014 Research Symposium

Benedictine University
Kindlon Hall, RM 026
May 17, 2014
MPH Students Plan Health Fair for Local Church
MPH Student Advisory Panel hosts a career event for online and on campus students
Our Students

Network with health professionals
Learn to lead
Create team projects
Work in the community
MPH Students Organize Walk for ALS
What are our graduates doing?

Wellness Coordinator, Advocate Health Care
Research Specialist, American Hospital Association
Director of Emergency Management, JetBlue Airways
Environmental Health Specialist, DuPage County Health Department
Healthcare Consultant, Cerner Corporation
Why MPH?

- Increased demand for public health professionals
- Opportunity to help people on a large scale
- Work in many different settings

Benedictine University

Informing today—Transforming tomorrow
Why Benedictine for your MPH?

• Small class sizes
• Personal attention
• Complete on campus, online, or combination
• Tailored schedule and curriculum
• Successful program for more than 25 years
• More than just courses: a sense of community; leadership and service learning opportunities