Preclinical Level II Overview

In this experience, candidates are provided with an opportunity to practice what they are learning in their methods courses, including planning and instructional delivery strategies where K-12 students engage in learning experiences that develop their abilities to apply knowledge that will develop their abilities to analyze, evaluate, and create. The emphasis of this experience is on lesson planning differentiated instruction and teaching methods that facilitate high level learning.