Title: Conflicts of Interest Policy; Trustees, Officers, Faculty and Staff

Policy Reference: By-Laws of Benedictine University

Background:
The Federal Tax Code, state laws pertaining to not-for-profit charitable organizations and common law principles of fiduciary duty prohibit self-dealing by insiders in order to assure the integrity and objectivity of the organization’s decision making. In addition, federal laws and regulations mandate conflict-of-interest-related requirements for a university’s federally funded research and other activities.

Benedictine University’s (the “University’s”) Conflict of Interest Policy helps assure the integrity and objectivity of the University’s decision making; protects University funds through proper stewardship and the avoidance of fines and penalties; and protects the reputation of the University from adverse media attention and government scrutiny. This Policy describes the responsibility of trustees, officers, faculty and staff to administer the financial resources of the University, consistent with its mission without even the appearance of impropriety and provides for penalties if employees or other insiders benefit unduly from transactions with the University.

This Policy supplements any conflict of interest provisions that may appear in the Faculty, Staff, and Board of Trustees Handbooks.

Policy Statement:
Benedictine University expects its trustees, officers, faculty and staff to advance the University’s mission of education guided by the Roman Catholic tradition and Benedictine heritage as part of the responsibility with which they are entrusted. All trustees, officers, faculty and staff are responsible not only to conduct themselves at all times so as to protect scrupulously the interests of Benedictine University, but also must do their best to observe and comply with all laws, rules and regulations and to avoid situations where their personal interests might be or appear to be in conflict with those of the University.

Each trustee, officer, faculty and staff member shall annually disclose to the University any potential conflicts of interest by signing and submitting a University disclosure statement.

Definitions:

- Compensation: Direct and indirect remuneration as well as gifts, favors, loans, advances, special discounts or services in excess of $50.00.
- Conflict of Commitment: A conflict of commitment occurs when the time devoted to an external activity adversely affects a faculty member’s capacity to meet University obligations.
- Conflict of Interest (COI): A COI exists where the occurrence of an activity or interest competes with or diminishes the interest of the University or interferes with the employee’s performance of duties on behalf of the University. A COI also exists where the outcome of an activity or decision serves the personal, professional or economic interest of the employee and is in conflict with the interests of the University. A non-exclusive list of potential Conflicts of Interest includes:
• An individual’s use of their position or knowledge gained at the University to influence decisions for their personal advantage or for the advantage of their families or friends;
• An individual’s placing his or her personal interest before the University’s interest;
• An individual’s use of University resources or assets for private gain without fair compensation to the University;
• An individual’s receipt of Compensation from a business where the business would appear to benefit from the individual’s decision on behalf of the University; or
• An individual’s pursuit of an economic opportunity identified in the course of University service, where the opportunity is not widely available, and has not been disclosed to the appropriate University officials.

• Economic Interest: An individual has an economic interest if the individual has, directly or indirectly, through business, investment or family:
  • An ownership or investment interest in any entity with which the University has a transaction or arrangement;
  • A compensation arrangement with the University or with any entity or individual with which the University has a transaction or arrangement; or
  • A potential ownership or investment interest in, or compensation arrangement with, any entity or individual with which the University is negotiating a transaction or arrangement.

• Institutional Conflict of Interest (ICOI): A potential Institutional Conflict of Interest may be deemed to exist where the relationship between the University and an external entity compromises (or appears to compromise) the integrity of the institutional decision making. Examples of potential ICOI are:
  • When the University has a financial interest, such as stock ownership or royalty interest, in a company that sponsors or has its own financial interest in research at the University; or
  • Commercial arrangements that provide collateral benefits to the University such as where a vendor or prospective vendor offers a gift to the University or where the University shares in the revenue generated by the sale of products or services to students, faculty, alumni or other constituents.

I. Roles and Responsibilities:

• Each trustee, officer, faculty and staff member is expected to:
  • Avoid even the appearance of impropriety when performing their duties.
  • Avoid creating relationships between the University and external entities that compromise (or appear to compromise) the integrity of the University’s decision making.
  • Apply the time and effort for which they are compensated, and their use of University resources, toward University ends.
  • Faculty Conflicts of Commitment are addressed in §2.18 of the Faculty Handbook.

• Each trustee, officer, faculty and staff shall annually disclose to the appropriate University official as specified below any actual or potential conflicts of interest by signing and submitting a University disclosure statement. Disclosures are to be updated as pertinent new interests or situations arise.

• When any interest on the part of a trustee, or officer, of the University or a member of his or her family poses a possible conflict with the trustee’s, or officer’s, University responsibilities, the trustee or officer shall promptly report the conflict to the attention of the other trustees or the officers of the University who are participating in or voting on the matter which poses the possible conflict, and the trustee or officer making such report shall abstain from participation in or voting on such matters.

• The minutes of the meeting (if applicable) shall reflect that a disclosure was made and that the trustee or officer abstained from any participation in the matter, and if the recording of minutes is not applicable, an appropriate written record of the disclosure and abstention shall be duly made.

• Any faculty member who engages in sponsored research shall disclose to the University any potential conflicts of interest relating to the research on their annual conflicts disclosure statement.

• It is the responsibility of all employees to report to the Vice President for Compliance and Mesa Operations any potential conflict of interest of which he or she becomes aware affecting transactions to which the University is a party.
