English for Academic Purposes

EAP 91 Reading for College Success I. A course in English for Academic Purposes for non-native speakers of English. The course offers advanced English learners extensive practice in reading, understanding, and discussing authentic, challenging texts in a variety of genres that students are likely to encounter in U.S. academic settings. The focus is on academic vocabulary development and effective reading comprehension strategies. Pre-requisite: Department consent. 4 semester credit hours. Typically offered: Fall and Spring terms.

EAP 92 Academic Writing I. A course in English for Academic Purposes for non-native speakers of English. The course offers advanced English learners extensive practice in academic writing, with a focus on the conventions of Edited Standard Written English. The basics of working with sources and avoiding plagiarism are introduced and reinforced. Pre-requisite: Department consent. 4 semester credit hours. Typically offered: Fall and Spring terms.

EAP 93 Grammar I. A course in English for Academic Purposes for non-native speakers of English. The course offers advanced English learners an intensive review of English grammar, with a focus on using grammatical forms correctly in academic contexts, both orally and in writing. Pre-requisite: Department consent. 4 semester credit hours. Typically offered: Fall and Spring terms.

EAP 94 Listening and Speaking. A course in English for Academic Purposes for non-native speakers of English. The course offers advanced English learners highly intensive contextualized practice in academic listening and speaking. The focus is on preparing students to transition to regular degree courses. There is extensive opportunity for critical thinking, discussion, and listening in academic genres. Students may also have an opportunity to sit in on some university classes in their discipline. Pre-requisite: Department consent. 4 semester credit hours. Typically offered: Fall and Spring terms.

EAP 95 Culture and Communication. A course in English for Academic Purposes for non-native speakers of English. The course enables development of higher-level conversation skills in English on topics related to American culture. Students learn through a variety of media and participate in on-campus activities. Regular writing is included in extension activities. Pre-requisite: Department consent. 2 semester credit hours. Typically offered: Fall and Spring terms.

EAP 96 Study Skills and Test-Taking Strategies. A course in English for Academic Purposes for non-native speakers of English. The course familiarizes students with the American academic culture and covers topics such as participating in class discussions, small-group work, time management, using on-campus resources such as the library and the Student Success Center, and preparing for exams and standardized tests. Pre-requisite: Department consent. 2 semester credit hours. Typically offered: Fall and Spring terms.

EAP 101 Reading for College Success II. A course in English for Academic Purposes for non-native speakers of English. The course builds on the skills developed in EAP 91. The focus is on academic vocabulary development, reading, analyzing, and discussing challenging texts in a variety of genres and disciplines, and critical thinking skills. Pre-requisite: Department consent. 4 semester credit hours. Typically offered: Fall and Spring term.

EAP 102 Academic Writing II. A course in English for Academic Purposes for non-native speakers of English. The course builds on the skills developed in EAP 92. The focus is on writing in the disciplines and using outside sources effectively. The basics of library research are introduced. Pre-requisite: Department consent. 4 semester credit hours. Typically offered: Fall and Spring term.

EAP 103 Grammar II. A course in English for Academic Purposes for non-native speakers of English. The course builds on the skills developed in EAP 93, with a focus on analyzing the context to make appropriate grammatical, pragmatic, and rhetorical choices. Pre-requisite: Department consent. 4 semester credit hours. Typically offered: Fall and Spring terms.