

How do I find a book?

At the Benedictine University Library, our online catalog is known as I-Share. I-Share is a shared catalog of the Benedictine University Library as well as the collections of the I-Share libraries (75 other academic libraries in the state of Illinois).

The screenshot shows the top of the Benedictine University Library website. A red header contains the logo and the text "Benedictine University Library". Below the header is a navigation bar with "Welcome to the Benedictine University Library". The main content area features a "Find books" section with links for "At Benedictine University", "At Springfield College", "At other I-SHARE libraries (what's I-SHARE?)", and "Elsewhere". A "Quick catalog search" section includes a text input field, a "Start of Title" dropdown menu, and a "Search" button. Two callout boxes are present: one pointing to the search input field with the text "You may begin your search here..." and another pointing to the "Quick catalog search" section with the text "... or here if you wish to perform a simple title, author, or subject search."

This screenshot shows a different view of the Benedictine University Library website. The red header is at the top. Below it is a navigation bar with "Welcome to the Benedictine University Library". The left sidebar contains contact information for the "Circulation Desk" (630-829-6050 | 877-575-6050) and the "Reference Desk" (630-829-6057 | E-mail the Reference Librarian). Below this is an "About the library" section with links for "Hours" and "Staff directory". The main content area features a "Find books" section with links for "At Benedictine University" and "At other I-SHARE libraries". A "Quick catalog search" section includes a text input field, a "Title" dropdown menu, and a "Search" button. A callout box points to the "Search" button with the text "Click here if you want to search for materials in other college libraries in Illinois."
