New Amenities, Programs and Growth Strengthen the University’s Future

This issue of our annual report highlights a number of new amenities and facilities introduced this year which are designed to serve students and enhance their collegiate experience. Some of the additions include a $3 million construction project in Kindlon Hall, new football locker and golf practice facilities, and the Neff Welcome Center at the main entrance to campus. In addition, a branch campus opened this past year in Mesa, Ariz., and new programs continue to be added to meet the demands of an evolving world.

These enhancements were made possible by our phenomenal student enrollment growth during the past decade as well as the continued support of our donors. Our expansion has caught the attention of The Chronicle of Higher Education, which recently named Benedictine the No. 1 fastest-growing campus in the United States among private nonprofit research institutions from 2000-2010.

As our nation grapples with a slow economic recovery, we are so very grateful for the support of our alumni and friends. Benedictine University continues to report increasing enrollment, growing academic programs and expanding facilities. In fact, the main campus is alive and well, and extremely vibrant with a record number of students enrolled this year. We have also continued to grow regionally, nationally and internationally.

Of course, with growth, there will always be additional challenges. Families continue to struggle to afford their children the opportunity of a college education. The nation’s unemployment rate remains well above average, contributing to the financial strain on our students and their families. As Benedictines, we must step up to meet these challenges.

As always, the future of our nation remains in the hands of extremely motivated, high-achieving and exceptionally skilled youth. We must make the education of our young people a top priority so they are well prepared for the challenges they face after graduation. I am proud to say that the Benedictine community of faculty, staff, alumni and friends has demonstrated that it is deeply committed to supporting the ever-changing needs of our students.

We continually seek a variety of incentives to assist our traditional and non-traditional students in furthering their education, and are looking ahead to the future needs and demands of students in the coming years. We have focused this year’s efforts on connecting with alumni from across the country through local and chapter events, targeted electronic communication with University information, as well as other opportunities for reconnecting. We are highly dedicated to the growth of this institution and the preservation of our Benedictine mission and vision.

Your continued support is crucial as we move forward. We ask that you give great thought to making a donation during this new fiscal year to support the needs of our students and the goals of the University.

We thank you for your continued commitment of time, talent and treasure. As part of the Benedictine community, you are valued and appreciated. Our hope is that you will continue to support the University, knowing you can be proud your donations will help to shape the next generation of problem solvers.

Thank you for your support!
Dear Alumni and Friends,

Thank you to all those who have supported us throughout the year. Fiscal 2012 presented a number of opportunities to enhance and improve the University’s position. Our presence in Mesa, Ariz., will create the first Catholic university in the state; classes are expected to begin Fall 2013. We also repositioned our adult learning team programs by in-sourcing certain functions; we hope to reap the benefit of this change in the next few years. Continuing from where we left off last year, the portion of the Rice Center renovation pertaining to the fitness center was completed and placed in service. As of May 31, several major capital improvements were in progress—the Neff Welcome Center, the buildout of the Kindlon basement, and the Borsellino Family Football Center locker facility. We are setting our sights on a new academic building in the next few years.

As of May 31, 2012, total assets on our Statement of Financial Position increased to $140.5 million. The increase in investments was due primarily to transfers from operating cash; these resources have been set aside to help fund construction, capital improvements and replacements on campus. The increase in total liabilities was attributable to higher deferred revenue, construction-related payables, and interest rate swap liability, which was partially offset by the reduction on bonds and notes payable arising from principal payments. After subtracting total liabilities from our assets, we are left with total net assets of $82.1 million, 1.01 percent less than last year’s balance.

On our Statement of Activities, gross tuition and fee revenue rose above the $100 million level. Our traditional and online programs continued to grow and we added more Springfield enrollment. On the expense side, we made additional investments in personnel, health care and service-related costs supporting our higher enrollment. Our results were hampered by a net investment loss and an unfavorable valuation of the interest rate swaps. After reducing total revenue and other support of $85.8 million by total expenses and the interest rate swap effect, net assets for all classifications changed $(.8) million for the fiscal year.

We look to build on our past success and pursue those activities that support our mission:

Benedictine University is dedicated to the education of undergraduate and graduate students from diverse ethnic, racial and religious backgrounds. As an academic community committed to liberal arts and professional education distinguished and guided by our Roman Catholic tradition and Benedictine heritage, we prepare our students for a lifetime as active, informed and responsible citizens and leaders in the world community.

Visits to Benedictine Begin at the Neff Welcome Center

Visitors passing through Benedictine’s 108-acre campus now have a central location to begin their visit—the new Neff Welcome Center. Work on the $2.5 million center on the eastern edge of the school’s Lisle campus was completed in September.

The Neff Farmhouse, one of the oldest stone structures in DuPage County and which until recently had been used as a home by the school’s retired caretaker, was incorporated into the center.

The 2,700-square-foot welcome center also includes event space, freshman admissions offices, a conference room and a brick patio for University and alumni events and gatherings. The center fully extends the University’s welcoming spirit to all visitors.
Borsellino Family Football Center is the Envy of Division III

The Benedictine University football team, which won back-to-back Northern Athletics Conference titles in 2010 and 2011 and made consecutive appearances in the NCAA Division III football championships, has a new place to call home.

The Borsellino Family Football Center, a 4,100-square-foot locker facility made possible in large part by the generosity of the Borsellino family of Oak Brook, opened last August as part of the renovation of the Dan and Ada Rice Center.

The new locker facility, located on the west side of the building and taking in part of the old racquetball courts, includes 130 hardwood lockers, a “chalk talk” multimedia area, and a “Champions Room” honoring past Eagles greats.

Students Can Golf Like a Pro at the Bartlett Golf Center

Benedictine University’s golf teams now have access to a state-of-the-art, indoor training facility that allows student-athletes to practice and perfect their skills year-round at the new $600,000 Bartlett Golf Center in the Dan and Ada Rice Center.

The facility, made possible in part by the generosity of Bill and Gayle Bartlett, contains interactive golf simulators complete with 12-foot-wide screens and two 360-degree systems of infrared beams that provide exact and immediate ball-flight statistics with live and fluid 3-D environments and multiple camera angles.

The center is primarily used by the golf teams, but is also available to all students through student activities and physical education courses. The center also includes a putting green and chipping area—making it a truly exceptional facility.
Benedictine Library Gets Major Facelift, New Space

Library users want quiet reading and study areas, while also looking for a place to meet and socialize. They want computers to access timely information and cutting-edge research, but they also want to be able to get their hands on printed resources that are not available online.

Members of the Benedictine community now have such a facility at their fingertips. The new Benedictine University Library opened its doors last fall following completion of a three-month, $3 million construction project.

The project included the buildout of the lower level of the Kindlon Hall of Learning—which now features four new high-tech classrooms—and a reconfiguration of the second and third floors of the Kindlon tower into a reading room, an interactive area and an information technology help center.
Evolving Majors Prepare Students for Today's World

Benedictine University is always striving to provide students with the tools to succeed. That includes offering majors that fit the needs of business, health and education.

Business Analytics is a Growing Field

The Business Analytics major is designed to address the growing demand for people with analytical skills and strong backgrounds in business fundamentals. Students who major in Business Analytics receive thorough exposure to analytics-related principles and the hands-on tools used in today's business. Classes focus on how analytics is applied to managerial decisions in business.

The program prepares students for careers in corporate management across most business functions, management and data analysis, analytical consulting, financial planning, project management and investment banking.

Exercise and Sports Studies Major Offers Entry Into World of Sports

An emphasis on health and physical fitness in the United States has created a large number of rewarding careers in collegiate or professional athletics, strength and conditioning, personal training, corporate fitness, and at community organizations like park districts or the local YMCA.

Benedictine now offers a Bachelor of Arts in Exercise and Sports Studies major that provides students an opportunity to enter those areas without completing a teacher education program. The major can also lead to graduate study in Clinical Exercise Physiology.

The Exercise and Sports Studies major includes courses in sports administration, sports psychology, sports law, drug use and prevention, the care of injuries, current issues in health, and a wide range of topics related to health and fitness.

Services Center Now Open in Mesa, Ariz.

Seeking to further enhance its reputation as a leading provider of outstanding academic programs and to achieve its mission of graduating students who are good citizens and good stewards of society, Benedictine began its expansion into Mesa, Ariz., last fall.

The University, which will become the first Catholic institution of higher education in Arizona, began business operations at a services center at 51 E. Main St. and will offer classes beginning September 2013 at 225 E. Main St., both located in downtown Mesa.

Initial degree offerings will include a Bachelor of Fine Arts, Bachelor of Arts in Criminal Justice, Bachelor of Arts in Communication Arts, Bachelor of Arts in Psychology, Bachelor of Arts in Theology, Bachelor of Science in Nutrition and Bachelor of Business Administration in Management and Organizational Behavior, in addition to a minor in Religious Studies.

Plans Proceeding for Construction of New Business Building

The vacant area between the Kindlon Hall of Learning and the Coal Ben will eventually be home to a high-tech, multi-story business building that will offer students a new level of learning.

In addition to classrooms, study areas and offices, the building will house the College of Business’ internationally-recognized doctoral programs in Organization Development and Values-Driven Leadership. Tentative plans include a 600-seat auditorium which will facilitate lectures and symposiums by some of the world’s leading business thinkers.

The building will also enhance Benedictine’s partnerships with universities and corporations around the world and attract top-tier students and educators.
Chapel Moves to Fourth Floor of Kindlon
The St. Benedict Chapel, which for years was located in the lower level of the Krasa Student Center, has moved to the fourth floor of the Kindlon Hall of Learning where it shares space with the new, expanded offices of University Ministry. The added space allows University Ministry to better meet the spiritual needs of the Benedictine community while providing a permanent home for the Center for Mission and Identity, now under the full-time direction of Assistant to the President for Mission Integration Alicia Tait, D.M.A., and the Office of Intercultural Education led by Carol Swett.

The chapel offers daily Mass at noon in addition to other prayer services and adoration times throughout the year.

New Fitness Center Opened
The University unveiled a new fitness center, training facility and office project in October 2011, as part of the much broader $6.7 million renovation and revitalization of the Dan and Ada Rice Center.

The fitness facility encompasses more than 11,000 square feet, including a 7,500-square-foot lower level dedicated to cardio and circuit training and a 4,200-square-foot strength training mezzanine that contains both free weights and strength training equipment to cater to a variety of users.

The project also included the construction of an advanced training facility featuring six training tables, hot and cold water tubs, coaches’ offices and classrooms, the Benedictine Hall of Fame and a conference room overlooking the rejuvenated Rice Center Arena.
A Sign of Attraction
For nearly 20 years, the electronic sign on the corner of Maple Avenue and College Road has been passers-by’s first visual contact with the University. The sign provided information on open houses, sporting events, visiting lecturers, concerts and community news.

But parts for the aged sign were increasingly difficult to find, necessitating the construction of a new LED message center that will continue to provide passers-by, students, staff and visitors with the latest University and community information.

You make it all possible.
As the University continues to grow and meet the needs of students, it also continues to bring Catholic and Benedictine values and ideals to the world. Thank you for your support.
