WHY STUDY SOCIOLOGY AT BENEDICTINE MESA?

The Sociology Program prepares one for a lifetime of change by developing one's appreciation of diversity, love of learning, writing and study skills, and knowledge base about human behavior, social organization, culture, and social change. If you are the type of person who does not necessarily follow the crowds (but are fascinated by their behavior), the type who is truly interested in what is going on in the world, then sociology should interest you. A degree in sociology is an excellent springboard for entering the world of business, industry, and organizations. Career opportunities for students completing the Bachelor of Science (BS) degree in Sociology include employment in local, state, and federal social and community service agencies, such as housing agencies, juvenile courts and juvenile and adult correctional institutions, urban and community planning agencies, mental health and drug counseling centers, youth guidance agencies, and community organizations

“Choosing Benedictine University Mesa was easy for me. I fell in love on my very first visit. I was aware of the community feel from the faculty and students immediately. I love that it's not too far from home, but far enough that I have been able to live in the dorm and live on my own for the first time. Living in Alhambra has taught me to be independent and develop some necessary time management skills. I've made such close friendships and I also work a part-time job. I've learned another important lesson... never mix my white clothes and colored clothes when I'm doing laundry.”
